

BRIGHTON COLLEGE AL AIN

Job Description

Theatre and Performing Arts Technician

We are seeking to appoint a highly motivated individual to support the day to day running of our outstanding Theatre and Performing Arts facility.

You will be responsible for managing and maintaining the theatrical sound, lighting and audio visual systems, as well as the stage, operational technology and general organisation of the Theatre environment. This would include preparing the stage and associated technology for assemblies and lessons. You would also play an integral role in the planning, preparation and performances of school productions. In addition, you would manage the booking systems for the theatre and develop links with the community and relevant outside agencies.

The post requires someone who can work on their own initiative, be able to work well as part of a team and support teachers and students in creating an inspiring learning environment and enriching opportunities.

Ideally we would be looking for someone with some experience of working in a theatre or performing arts venue, but if necessary, training could be provided for the right person.

Summary of responsibilities:

- Responsible for day to day operation, event support and technical upkeep of the theatre and duties such as lighting, sound, stage management and production management across the college.
- Supervision, storage and maintenance of the lighting, sound and AV equipment and supervision and maintenance of the theatre including liaising with repair technicians and maintenance contract holders.

What we are also looking for:

- A creative, solutions based attitude.
- An organised approach.
- Excellent communication skills.
- Positivity and enthusiasm for working in a school environment.
- Patience and resilience.

This post offers an excellent opportunity to join an enthusiastic, experienced, and friendly team.

If you are interested in joining the Performing Arts team at Brighton College Al Ain, please send your CV with a covering letter to Mrs Rebecca Graves, Head of Senior School at headofseniorschool@brightoncollegealain.ae
